Since 1984, EDT has been delivering STEM experiences to young people across the UK. EDT's First Edition programme offers a variety of STEM taster days. These events feature hands-on activities and careers sessions, based at schools, colleges, universities and companies. The programme also offers industrial visits and female only events.

First Edition also runs 'STEM Family Challenge' – an after school event, designed to encourage young people to work with family members on practical hands-on activities and learn about career options. The programme also helps to encourage under-represented groups to consider a future career in STEM disciplines.

Employers can support the programmes in a variety of ways – from hosting events on company premises to providing careers talks at a school. First Edition is designed to work towards fulfilling your companies' outreach objectives.

"First Edition is an excellent means to enthuse and inspire young people about careers in engineering and technology, and to encourage them to continue studying maths and science in school. It also presents an opportunity to emphasise to under-represented groups, especially girls that they too can access these interesting and rewarding careers."
Glyn Dean, Squadron Leader, RAF
